Webinar + Matchmaking: How to Apply to PartArt4OW’s Second Open Call

When

Monday, 8 September 2025 — 11:00 CEST (UTC+2)
Note: Spain (Europe/Madrid) is on CEST in September. If your calendar shows CET, please adjust to 11:00 CEST.

Where

Online (Zoom link sent after registration)

What’s this about?

PartArt4OW’s 2nd Open Call supports bold, community-engaged initiatives that combine science and artistic practice to prevent, study, and reduce water pollution in the Mediterranean. This live session will walk you through eligibility, selection criteria, timeline, the second call challenge, and the application form—followed by a guided matchmaking segment to help you find partners.

Who should attend

- Artists, cultural organizations, and creative technologists
- Researchers, NGOs, educators, and citizen-science groups
- Municipal actors, coastal communities, and mission-aligned SMEs

You’ll learn

- What makes a strong proposal (methodology, citizen engagement, impact)
- How funding and acceleration support work
- Key dates and how to submit a competitive application
- Details about the second call challenge
- Where to find partners and how to align your collaboration

Agenda

1. The first hour will provide key information about the call — including the specific challenge it addresses, eligibility criteria, evaluation process, and application guidelines.
2. The second hour will be dedicated to an interactive matchmaking session, where participants can connect with potential partners, share project ideas, and explore collaborations to strengthen their proposals.

Ready to join? Register here and you’ll receive the calendar invite and Zoom link.
